1 AN ORDINANCE adopting the 2006 Annual Budget and 2 making appropriations for the operation of county agencies 3 and departments and capital improvements for the fiscal 4 year beginning January 1, 2006 and ending December 31, 5 2006.

8 BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COUNCIL OF KING COUNTY:

9 SECTION 1. Findings. The council makes the following findings of fact:

10 A. King County government is responsible for providing a variety of services to 11 all residents of the county. These include: regional services, such as criminal justice, 12 public health, wastewater treatment and public transportation; subregional services 13 through contracts with several suburban cities for police protection, jail services and 14 municipal court services; and local services to unincorporated areas, such as police 15 protection, roads, surface water management, local parks and land use regulation. To 16 provide these services, the council has adopted a 2006 budget totaling $3.46 billion, of 17 which $580 million is in the general fund.

18 B. The metropolitan King County council, through the oversight of its policy, 19 regional and budget committees and informed by a variety of master planning efforts, 20 task forces and citizen advisory groups, works throughout the year to bring down the cost 21 of government and improve the effectiveness of services. The 2006 budget embodies 22 five years of council policy direction and coordination that have stabilized criminal 23 justice spending, created priorities for human services, implemented best business 24 practices, instituted strategic planning and performance measurement, and initiated 25 strategic analysis of technology projects. As a consequence, the county is able to 26 maintain a network of mandated services and needed discretionary services for the most 27 fragile members of our society, while saving money and improving outcomes.

28 C. Over the past five years, the council has cut more than $130 million from the 29 county general fund. These reductions were necessary because the costs of maintaining 30 services have grown more quickly than revenues, creating a structural and recurring 31 budget gap in the general fund. This structural gap has been created in part because 32 voter-approved limits on property taxes have significantly limited revenue growth for the 33 general fund. Although the general fund will continue to face a structural gap for the 34 foreseeable future, the size of the structural gap has been reduced as the local economy 35 and revenue growth have recovered and the growth of expenditures has been reduced 36 through the initiatives and policies that the council has set in place over the last several 37 years. Over the next few years, one-time reserves will help the county to meet expected 38 budget needs, such as the rising cost of health care and continued investments in 39 technology.

40 D. The county's prudent financial management and low level of debt have earned 41 the highest possible bond ratings of AAA from all three major rating agencies: Standard 42 & Poor's; Moody's Investors Service; and Fitch Ratings. The 2006 budget continues to 43 implement long-standing financial policies that limit debt levels and maintain healthy 44 general fund reserves. As a result, King County finances capital projects at lower interest 45 rates, saving taxpayers' money on the cost of debt service.

46 E. The theme of the council's 2006 budget review process is "Measuring Up." As 47 part of its review, the council conducted a high-level assessment of agency strategic 48 business plans, which contain agency mission and goals, objectives and strategies for 49 achieving the goals, and performance measures. The council found that while many 50 county agencies have business plans, the plans vary widely in depth and breadth. Very 51 few business plans have performance measures that can be used to make decisions about 52 resource allocation. In 2006, the council will continue the performance measurement 53 advisory group process with the other branches of county government to determine 54 feasible next steps in establishing a countywide system of strategic performance 55 measurement and reporting. In addition, the council will review selected strategic 56 business plans and provide feedback to agencies regarding the appropriateness of goals, 57 objectives, strategies and performance measures.

58 G. Consistent with the "Measuring Up" theme, the council has taken actions to 59 improve results in the following areas: election reform, employee health benefits, 60 criminal justice, public health, human services, technology, enterprise and capital funds, 61 parks and open space and growth management.

62 H. Election Reform. Restoring public confidence in the conduct of elections has 63 been a top priority for the council since 2003, when the council established a citizens' 64 election oversight committee to review county election procedures. The council 65 responded to additional problems revealed in the 2004 general election by reestablishing 66 the citizens' election oversight committee, commissioning an independent management 67 audit of election operations and providing for independent observation of the 2005 68 general election. The 2006 budget continues the council's effort to improve elections by 69 requiring the county executive to submit a plan for improving the management and 70 operations of elections, along with a plan for measuring the results and reporting them 71 quarterly to the council.

72 I. Employee Health Benefits. King County, like other major employers, has 73 faced double-digit increases in the cost of employee health care benefits over the last 74 several years. The 2006 budget continues implementation of a major employee health 75 benefits initiative designed to reduce health care costs by $40 million over three years 76 while improving the health of employees. To make sure the plan achieves these savings, 77 the council has required a cost-benefit analysis of the program, the submittal of annual 78 reports measuring progress towards meeting the goals of the health benefits initiative and 79 a quality assurance review to ensure that the measurements are valid and accurate.

80 J. Criminal Justice. The council has made the reform of criminal justice policy 81 and the stabilization of criminal justice expenditures one of its highest priorities.
82 Through Ordinance 13916, which developed the juvenile justice operational master plan, 83 and Ordinance 14430, which developed the adult justice operational master plan, the 84 council has met its primary responsibility to protect public safety while at the same time

85 saving money, improving outcomes and reducing individuals' involvement in the 86 criminal justice system. This has been accomplished by: creating alternatives such as 87 drug court, mental health court and driver relicensing programs; emphasizing prevention 88 over detention, thereby freeing up jail space; and reinvesting savings in housing and 89 treatment programs that keep people out of the criminal justice system. The increased 90 use of alternatives to incarceration breaks the cycle of crime and makes the community 91 safer, while also allowing for more-efficient use of limited resources. Implementation of 92 the council's policies has successfully stabilized the growth of criminal justice spending 93 as a share of the county's overall general fund spending. Between 2000 and 2005, the 94 adult jail population decreased by twenty percent and the juvenile detention population 95 decreased by forty-five percent, with no increase in crime. When compared to the fifty 96 largest jail systems in the United States, only King County has experienced policy-driven 97 detention population declines.

98 1. The 2006 budget expands the county's commitment to alternatives to 99 incarceration. The council has added funding for a new learning center in the community 100 corrections division to provide literacy, GED and life skills training, in recognition of the 101 results of a similar program in Multnomah County, Oregon, that reduced recidivism by 102 more than fifty percent. In addition, the council added funding to expand the Helping 103 Hands Initiative that helps offenders complete their court-ordered community supervision 104 and provides thousands of hours of service free-of-charge to nonprofit agencies 105 throughout the county.

106 2. To implement the council's commitment to improving security on the 107 county's bus system, the 2006 budget dedicates twelve commissioned sheriff's deputy 108 positions for Metro Transit security, replacing the use of off-duty officers on overtime.

109 3. To improve court services for families, the 2006 budget supports the county's 110 Unified Family Court and includes new superior court commissioners and support staff 111 who will be dedicated to resolving family law and dependency matters. In addition, the 112 council also added a new position of district court magistrate to free up time for elected 113 district court judges to support superior court functions. Many of these improvements are 114 made possible because the state legislature in 2005 increased certain court filing fees and 115 added new fees.

116 4. The 2006 budget funds two new initiatives in the prosecuting attorney's 117 office: an auto theft initiative for targeted enforcement against the only type of crime that 118 has been increasing in the county; and a cold case unit that will use new forensic tools to 119 review five hundred unsolved homicides.

120 K. Public Health. In 2006, the county will spend more than $260 million in 121 order to provide a wide variety of regional public health services that protect and promote 122 the health of all 1.8 million citizens of King County, as well as the hundreds of thousands 123 of workers and tourists who enter the county each day.

124 1. The 2006 budget continues the commitment to the public health operational 125 master plan that the council initiated last year to develop a sustainable operational and 126 financial framework for critical public health services. In 2005, both the council and the 127 King County board of health adopted a work program for the master plan and will be 128 heavily involved in undertaking that work in 2006.

129 2. The 2006 budget provides an additional $5.7 million in general fund support 130 – a thirty-three percent increase – to maintain existing public health services that are 131 threatened by lack of adequate state and federal funding. With this increase, the general 132 fund contribution to public health services is nearly $23 million. The funds will 133 primarily support clinical health care services for the working poor and other uninsured 134 or underinsured individuals. If the state and federal funding and health insurance trends 135 continue, the county will not have the general fund resources available to meet the 136 growing demand. Through the public health operational master plan, the county seeks a 137 sustainable solution that ensures access to clinical health care for those in need and 138 maintains the county’s ability to provide other critical and effective public health 139 services.

140 3. In the 2006 budget the council ensures the provision of core public health
141 assessment activities that protect and promote the health of all people. These activities 142 ensure that the county tracks and analyzes health indicators critical to identifying needs 143 and evaluating the effectiveness of intervention strategies.

144 4. The council finds that a clear separation should exist between the legislative 145 functions of the board of health and the executive functions of Public Health – Seattle &
146 King County. In the 2006 budget, the council has included funding for independent 147 analytical staff support to assist the board of health in fulfilling its legislative oversight 148 function.

149 L. Human Services. In 2006, the county will spend more than $205 million to 150 help maintain and improve the community safety net of support, treatment and 151 rehabilitation services for our most vulnerable residents. About ten percent of the total expenditures for human services are funded through the county general fund, with most of the remainder backed by federal and state revenues managed by the county.

1. In accordance with the recently adopted Ten-Year Plan to End Homelessness, the 2006 budget increases funding that supports development of low-income and special-needs housing. The 2006 budget adds $3.75 million for new homeless housing and service projects. The budget also includes $4.1 million to remodel the vacant Cedar Hills Addiction Treatment Facility for use as a transitional housing program for women leaving correctional facilities and reuniting with their children.

2. Lack of treatment for the mentally ill increases the number of psychiatric emergencies that require more expensive and less effective public safety and emergency medical interventions. While the 2006 budget maintains funding for mental health programs at essentially the same level as 2005, this level includes funding the county hopes to obtain from the state. However, if this funding does not materialize in the next state legislative session, mental health services will have to be cut during 2006 by $9.6 million and all outpatient services for persons not enrolled in Medicaid will have to be eliminated.

3. In the 2006 budget, the council invests an additional $200,000 to support the recently adopted council plan to convert the mental health system from one based on maintenance to one promoting recovery of functioning in community life. As clients succeed in becoming more self-sufficient, the system should be able to meet new demands with less growth in costs, resulting in a higher likelihood that the system can be sustained with available revenues.

174 4. The veterans and human services levy was approved by the voters at the 2005 175 general election. The levy will strengthen support and rehabilitation services for 176 veterans, their families and others in need. The council is reserving the projected $13 177 million to be collected from the levy in 2006. During the first quarter of 2006, the 178 council will develop a policy framework and allocation plan for the effective use of these 179 funds, and will appoint citizen oversight boards to assure that these funds are put to the 180 most effective possible use.

181 M. Technology. Over the last five years, the council has led the effort to 182 strategically plan for and implement sound technology investments. In 2001, the council 183 created a strategic planning, governance and oversight process for countywide 184 technology investments and reorganized county government to provide such strategic 185 planning and oversight. In 2003, the council adopted the county's first three-year 186 strategic technology plan since 1996. In 2005, the council developed a framework for 187 evaluating technology projects that requires departments to justify projects before they 188 begin. Each project is reviewed through the council analytic framework to ensure it has a 189 solid business case to justify itself on the basis of the council's goals of efficiency, 190 accountability, public access, customer service and risk management. In particular, 191 efficiency projects are examined before they are approved to ensure that they will pay for 192 themselves over time.

193 1. The 2006 budget includes $53 million for investments in thirty-one 194 technology projects and eighteen equipment replacement projects, bringing the county 195 commitment to $180 million for current and new technology and equipment replacement 196 projects.

197 2. The budget holds in reserve $2.3 million for nine new technology projects 198 until the council adopts its new three-year strategic technology plan for 2006 through 199 2008, and determines whether the new projects are consistent with that plan.

200 3. The budget also holds in reserve $37.9 million for the transit radio 201 replacement project until the council approves an implementation plan, schedule and 202 quality assurance review.

203 4. The budget also requires the executive to submit:

204 a. a plan for countywide reorganization of information technology functions in 205 order to achieve efficiencies and cost savings, with nearly $1 million for twelve new 206 information technology positions held in reserve pending council review and approval of 207 the completed information technology reorganization plan;

208 b. a report on how to ensure savings from technology projects are captured and 209 budgets are reduced; and 210 c. a business case, including a cost-benefit analysis, that will be used by 211 decision-makers to determine if the Law, Safety and Justice Integration Program will be 212 extended.

213 N. Enterprise and Capital Funds. King County is responsible for protecting 214 the environment, treating wastewater, managing solid waste, operating and maintaining 215 the transit system, and constructing and maintaining major capital projects for county 216 purposes, including roads. The council carefully scrutinized the county's enterprise 217 agencies and large capital construction projects to ensure the efficient use of fees and 218 taxes.

219 1. The 2006 budget maintains transit fares and all buss pass prices at 2002
220 levels, despite continuing increases in gas and diesel fuel costs. The council maintains 221 service levels added in 2005 due to the temporary closure of the downtown Seattle bus 222 tunnel, and in the 2006 budget adds 17,800 hours of service.

223 The 2006 budget continues the Elliott Bay Water Taxi as a valuable seasonal 224 addition to the transportation system with strong ridership and fare box recovery. The 225 budget also provides for construction of a permanent dock at the West Seattle terminus of 226 the route.

227 2. The 2006 budget continues the policy of funding road projects that address 228 safety and maintenance needs before funding projects that would add capacity to the 229 roads system. These safety and maintenance projects include Coal Creek Parkway, the 230 May Creek Bridge project, Tolt Bridge and a nonmotorized countywide project. The 231 council established this roads funding policy to address the loss of local vehicle license 232 fee revenues following voter approval of Initiative 776. Although the state Legislature 233 approved new gas taxes that will be phased in over four years, the revenue distributed to 234 the county will still be insufficient to address capacity projects.

235 3. The 2006 budget keeps both the monthly sewer rate and the capacity charge 236 unchanged from 2005 rates. To provide stability and certainty for wastewater users, the 237 council in 2005 adopted a monthly wastewater service rate of $25.60, with the goal of 238 maintaining this rate for two years. The council also adopted a monthly wastewater 239 capacity charge of $34.05 to fund wastewater capital program elements needed to 240 accommodate growth, with the goal of maintaining this charge for three years.

241 4. To protect water quality and to serve a growing population, the 2006 budget
242 continues the county's fiscal commitment to construct the $1.6 billion Brightwater 243 treatment plant and conveyance project that will treat thirty-six million gallons per day of 244 wastewater from north King County and south Snohomish County by 2010.

245 5. To conserve water that would otherwise be drawn from rivers, streams and 246 groundwater reserves, the 2006 budget provides funding to commence the first phase of 247 the Brightwater reclaimed water project. This phase will conserve up to seven million 248 gallons of water per day once it becomes operational in 2011. When fully completed, the 249 project will provide up to twenty-one million gallons of reclaimed water per day. The 250 water will be used by customers in the Sammamish valley and as far west as Shoreline 251 for landscape and agricultural irrigation, heating, cooling and industrial processing.
252 Customers will also benefit from lower costs by using reclaimed water.

253 6. The 2006 budget supports King County's commitment to Harborview
254 Medical Center with $4.5 million in strategic infrastructure improvements and equipment 255 acquisitions. The budget continues the $293 million voter-approved bond construction 256 project that funds seismic improvements, an expanded inpatient building and a new 257 multipurpose facility. In 2006, the council will continue to monitor the scope, schedule 258 and budget to ensure the successful completion of the project.

259 O. Parks and Open Space. In Ordinance 14509, the council established parks 260 and open space policies and funding priorities that preserve the county's commitment to 261 parks and recreation in the county. In May 2003, the voters approved a parks operating 262 levy to support that commitment. The 2006 budget supports the acquisition, development 263 and rehabilitation of regional and rural parks, open spaces, trails and recreational

264 facilities. The council continues the transition that began in 2002 to emphasize regional 265 park assets and local parks in rural areas where the county is the primary service 266 provider, and to reduce dependence on limited general fund revenues.

267 P. Growth Management. Since 1990, King County has been required under the 268 Washington state Growth Management Act to focus growth in urban areas, reduce 269 sprawl, protect the environment, encourage efficient transportation systems, foster 270 economic development, increase the availability of affordable housing and provide for 271 necessary public facilities and services. King County meets this requirement by adopting 272 a comprehensive land use plan and implementing development regulations. In 2004, the 273 county adopted the ten-year update of its Comprehensive Plan, including policies and 274 development regulations to protect the functions and values of critical areas, as required 275 by chapter 36.70A RCW.

276 1. The county remains responsible for providing local services to 350,000 277 residents of the unincorporated areas of the county, including 202,000 residents living in 278 urban unincorporated areas. The 2006 budget continues funding of the county's 279 annexation initiative, which is designed to encourage annexation or incorporation of the 280 urban unincorporated areas, as envisioned by the state Growth Management Act and the 281 countywide planning policies.

282 2. The 2006 budget retains funding for positions added in the department of 283 development and environmental services to provide assistance to citizens in complying 284 with provisions of the Critical Areas ordinances. In 2005, the council provided funding 285 for customer surveys, the results of which are being used to make changes designed to 286 increase customer satisfaction levels. In 2006, the council has included additional 287 funding to assess the value of the changes and determine whether the department has 288 accomplished its customer satisfaction goals.

289 Q. It is the intent of the metropolitan King County council that its policies be 290 implemented through the 2006 King County budget.

291 SECTION 2. Effect of proviso or expenditure restriction veto.

292 It is hereby declared to be the legislative intent of the council that a veto of any 293 proviso or expenditure restriction that conditions the expenditure of a stated dollar 294 amount or the use of FTE authority upon the performance of a specific action by an 295 agency shall thereby reduce the appropriation authority to that agency by the stated dollar 296 or FTE amount.

297 SECTION 3. The 2006 annual budget is hereby adopted and, subject to the 298 provisions hereinafter set forth and the several amounts hereinafter specified or so much
